FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME. FAMILY NEEDS HELP.

Fire from a burning chimney set fire to the John Canfield home in Beaver Creek Tuesday of last week, burning it to the ground, together with its contents. Nothing was saved, and it leaves the family entirely destitute for household furnishings and clothing. If there are families here who have home equipment that is not being used, there would be an opportunity to help where help is needed. Just phone Mrs. Jens Hanson, No. 75F2, or let the Canfields know direct, and articles will be called for. Let's help these young people to get another start.

Council Buys Lighting System

WILL SAVE VILLAGE NEARLY $100 PER MONTH

The village council at its meeting last Monday night concluded negotiations for the purchase of our boulevard lighting system from the Michigan Public Service Company. The purchase price was $3,000.

In the past the Company owned the lighting system including posts, globes, wiring, etc., and the service charge for lights included the rental cost of this system.

From the time of installation of the system, June 15th 1929 to December 1, 1933 the Village paid the Company the sum of $5,618.33 for lights and rentals. Last summer an effort was made by the village council to purchase the system and thus eliminate the rental charge. In the negotiations the Company wanted the sum of $3,593 for the system. The council offered the sum of $2,500. Since that time the matter has hung fire while efforts were being made to consummate the deal. Monday night the matter was settled when the council raised its offer to $3,000.

Lights, and the system rental amounted to about $115.23 per month. Now that the system is owned by the village the lighting cost will be about $28.00 per month, which is a big saving to the taxpayers. Besides the Company granted the ownership period to begin on December 1st of last year, which up to October 1st of this year would give us a saving of $872.00. It is estimated that by owning the boulevard system there would be a saving to the village annually of $1,046.76.

St. George and the Dragon
The legend of St. George and the dragon is simply an allegorical expression of a Christian hero over evil. St. George is believed to have been an official in Diocletian's army who was martyred April 23, 304 A. D.

AUXILIARY INSTALLS OFFICERS
Holding their annual installation of officers Tuesday evening Grayling American Legion Auxiliary entertained delegations from West Branch, Roscommon and Prudenville. Mrs. Isaac Shirey of Roscommon was the installation officer and following are those who will fill the various offices for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Earl Dawson, of West Branch, the newly elected committee-woman of the Tenth district, gave a short, interesting talk. The business session adjourned. Winter Sports Meeting Tonight

WILL ELECT OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

Everyone Interested Urged To Attend

Tonight, at the Court House, at 8:00 o'clock, there will be a meeting for the purpose of completing an organization for the purpose of setting up a sound and stable form of administration. A set of bylaws have been drawn up for consideration of those present and a new board of directors and officers will be elected. The plan is to organize as a non-profit corporation.

Everyone interested in winter sports, and that means just about everyone in Grayling, should be present at this meeting. It is of vital importance to the people of Grayling and surrounding region, and to treat the matter lightly would indicate the lack of interest in the welfare of the community.

It is expected to elect a directorate of about 150 persons, and takes in a lot of our business men, industrialists and workers. It's our affair and it is hoped that there will be a very large attendance. Anyone not actively interested in winter sports but have the interest of the community at heart will be just as welcome as the most enthusiastic participant. Don't miss the meeting—Court House tonight—Thursday, Oct. 4th. This meeting means business. Come out and see.

"LAIGS DO YOUR STUFF"
H. J. Hiedemann of Higgins Lake region had a thrilling experience last Saturday when he became mixed up with a pair of bear cubs and their mother.

While out riding with his wife and Harold Buck they ran onto a couple of bear cubs. Nearby was the mother bear and when she saw the intruders she ushered the cubs ahead of her and followed behind with one eye on the visitors and soon the bears vanished into the woods. Soon after there appeared another cub bear and Mr. Hiedemann got out of the auto and gave chase but he didn't go far before he again was confronted by the mother bear. The latter reared upon its hind legs and let out an angry snort and when the pursuer stopped the mother bear came down upon all four feet and started after him. Did he run? Well I guess. We can imagine him saying, "Laigs do your stuff!" He reached the car ahead of the mother bear and slammed the door in her face just in time to escape its sharp claws that were bared ready to operate. Mr. Hiedemann admits that he was "scared stiff."

Waterspouts
Ordinarily, waterspouts occur only in tropical waters, for the reason that the air in the tropics is always warm and moisture-laden, and ready to condense upon meeting a sudden cool wind. However, waterspouts have been reported in the warm Gulf stream in northern seas. These spouts are believed to occur when cold wintry blasts from the land pass out over the sea and meet the warm Gulf stream. Waterspouts last only a few minutes and are believed to be not dangerous to a ship, even when the spout is directly in the path of the ship.

Welfare Workers Would Start Work

The welfare clients of the Village of Grayling have requested the Village council to petition Dr. Huber, state administrator of the PERA to re-open projects in the Village of Grayling, as they are willing and anxious to go to work. It is a source of great satisfaction that the welfare clients have put their loyalty to Grayling above their selfish desires and we congratulate them upon their attitude.

The Council at its meeting Monday night passed a resolution in accordance with the above request, and forwarded same to Dr. Huber, the state administrator; Francis Reagan, state field representative, and Mrs. Laura Olson, local welfare administrator.

It is expected that if the wishes of the Grayling workers and the village council are granted that work on several local projects will start soon.

Softball
A three-game softball series has been arranged between G.H.S. and our neighbors on the north, Frederic. The first tilt was played at Frederic Friday afternoon, Coach Cornell gathering up his men here at 3:15 and cutting last hour classes to insure plenty of daylight playing time.

Altho they had had very little practice together this fall, our boys played a fast game, piling up a 13-point lead in the first four innings before giving their opponents a single score.

A large part of the credit for our overwhelming 16 to 4 victory goes to Smock, who, in the five innings which he pitched, allowed only two hits with one run. Chalkier, who later substituted for Smock, was wild at first, walking five men, but allowed only one hit in two innings.

Brady and Smith featured with fielding plays. Smith made a nice running catch to retire the side with the bases loaded.

Frederic has a large and roomy ball grounds which seemed to give our fellows an itch to lean on the horsehide. Doremire set the example in the first inning by slamming in a home run with two men on base. Later on Chalkier collected two triples and Borchers and Smock collected one apiece.

The date for the next game is undetermined, but it will be played here soon.

Plans Complete For E. M. T. Meet

With 2500 invitations enroute to tourist minded residents of East Michigan and acceptances coming in rapidly, indications point to another successful joint meeting of the East Michigan Tourist Association and the North Eastern Michigan Development Bureau, scheduled for the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, October 9.

The meeting officially opens in the afternoon when the members of the two organizations gather to name their officers for the coming year. The Tourist Association election is slated for 2:30 following the Development Bureau naming at 1:30. At 3:30 combined groups will get under way in the same location to attack problems pertinent to the resort and tourist problem in East Mich.

Reservations for the dinner in the evening are limited and acceptances are being filed in the order in which they are received.

Guided by the entertaining vocabulary of Master of Ceremonies Mike Gorman, genial Flint newspaperman whose presence at Log Office functions, has become a permanent fixture, the program for the dinner will include several of the state's leading figures.

For several years following its birth, the meeting and dinner were strictly stag, but with the increasing number of women members in both the association and bureau "Tables for Ladies" were set aside and this year is expected to find no small group of the fair sex in attendance.

The evening's entertainment gets under way at 6 p. m. at the Hotel Wenonah where a reception will afford those in attendance an opportunity to meet the speakers and neighbors from East Michigan sections other than their own. The dinner begins at 6:30.

Recounts Delaying Official Canvass
Recounts in three Congressional and one State Senatorial districts are delaying the official canvass of the primary election. Until recounts are completed, the vote cannot be tabulated.

In the Fourteenth Congressional district, the question of jurisdiction of the recount has been raised. Under the law, there is some doubt whether the recount should be conducted by the department of state or by the Wayne County Clerk.

700 VIEW DEER HERD
700 persons viewed the deer herd in the Ogemaw Game Refuge in a single week in August. The herd has grown from two to thirty in four years.

Though they are not tame, the deer come nightly to feed. They present a picturesque scene to patient visitors, many of whom have waited hours for the sight of the velvet-clad animals feeding in their native habitat.

Public Approves Obligation Bonds

A mass meeting was held in the school auditorium last night, called by the village council, for the purpose of placing before the taxpayers the situation of the waterworks question as it is now before the council for decision.

Last November the people voted on the matter of bonding the village for $37,000, to which amount the PWA of Washington would contribute about $10,000 for the purpose of rebuilding our waterworks system. At that time the proposal carried by a large majority. The type of bond would make all property owners equally liable for the bonds, in case the bonds were defaulted.

Last spring the PWA decided that that was the wrong type of bond and asked that we vote upon a revenue bonding proposition. This was done at another expensive special election. Now the PWA comes back with the information that the last proposal was not desirable, but that the first election was sufficient but requested the council to again approve it after which the PWA would accept it.

The council had full authority to approve the matter without presenting it to the people but the members wished to have the taxpayers have full knowledge of what is going on and took this way to place the matter before the people.

The several phases of the question were fully explained by Mayor Clippert and by Merle F. Nellist, councilman and city attorney. Many questions arose and were liberally discussed. After all seemed satisfied a vote of confidence was given the members of the council, together with recommendations that approval be given to the acceptance of the general obligation bonds that are being requested by the PWA.

GIVE FAREWELL FOR REV. AND MRS. SALMON
Bidding farewell to Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Salmon, the Adult Bible class and the Board of Michelson Memorial church arranged a gathering in the church parlors last Thursday night. The evening was spent socially and Rev. and Mrs. Salmon presented with a beautiful set of china dishes as a token of esteem.

Again Monday evening the Epworth League gave a party, presenting them with a pen and pencil set.

Both were very pleasant affairs.

4,000 Auto Titles Await Owners
There are 4,000 automobile owners in Michigan who do not have certificates of title for their cars. That many titles are being held in a department of state unclaimed file, after being returned by postal authorities because of improper addresses.

In many cases the car owner has moved and failed to leave a forwarding address. In Detroit, transposition of numbers of street addresses causes many titles to be returned to the department. Owners of cars, who have not received their titles, should write the title division of the Department of State.

LOCAL PCA CHIEF ENTHUSIASTIC OVER LOAN PROSPECTS

Returning from a conference in St. Paul attended by the presidents of all of the 88 Production Credit Associations of the 7th Farm Credit district, Otto V. Klein, Vice President of the West Branch Production Credit Association, says he is enthusiastic over prospects for making this association a permanent and useful lending institution for the farmers of Crawford County and the other territory within this association, which includes Ogemaw, Oshtemo, Alcona, Roscommon, Iosco and Gladwin counties.

Under the new order just issued by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank the West Branch Production Credit Association is authorized to make loans up to $500.00 without first submitting papers to Federal Intermediate Credit Bank. This means that the farmer may make an application with Mr. Frank Sales of Grayling, Michigan, and as soon as the inspection is made and the papers signed by the applicant the money is available in cash, thus enabling the West Branch Production Credit Association to close loans within two or three days from the time the application is made, and in some cases the same day application is made.

IN MEMORY OF A BABY

By ANNE CAMPBELL

I do not know why angel wings Should flutter near me in the night;
Then swinging, as a starling swings, Desert me for eternal flight.

I do not know why baby hands Should cling one moment to my own,
Then reach for the celestial lands, And leave me weeping all alone.

Perhaps by heaven's outer gate There is a tiny sentinel
Who waits, as I have learned to wait, To hear the tolling of a bell.

I longed to keep a little soul From this world's sadness undefied,
And weep that by the starry goal, Stainless, there waits a little child

Mystery Dwarfs of Santo
Thrust People in World

There is in the dense forest of Santo, the largest island in the New Hebrides, a race of dwarfs who are the smallest people on earth. The pygmies of the Congo forests discovered by Stanley in 1877 average around four feet in height, notes a writer in the Montreal Herald, but the average stature of the Santo dwarfs is only three feet six inches, judging by the few specimens seen and measured by white men.

Hardly anything is known of their mode of living, as they haunt forest fastnesses. To follow them would be to court death, for they impregnate the tips of their tiny arrows, projected through blowpipes, with some unknown vegetable poison. It is so deadly that the slightest scratch from one speedily proves fatal. Moreover, these little people are intensely hostile to strangers and shoot them on sight. The more civilized natives, dwelling along the seashore, assert that they are cannibals.

Ethnologists are trying to discover how the Santo dwarfs managed to reach their present home. For they are an inland-dwelling race; true forest pygmies. They own no canoes and have no knowledge of navigation. Yet obviously they have come from some other part of the tropics, for in features they are similar to the African pygmies and quite unlike the Melanesian peoples by whom they are surrounded.

Southern Arabia YieldsIncense, Myrrh and Aloe

Few of the present day know even the name of this land. Yet once it was rich, with a highly developed culture. One of the high roads of the Old World, the trade route from India and Persia to Egypt and Syria, and to the other countries around the Mediterranean, ran through Hadramaut (southern coast of the Arabian peninsula); and it supplied its own fragrant contribution to that ancient world commerce—a contribution not great in extent, but vast in significance, says a writer in the National Geographic Magazine.

Incense trees grew along the barren, rocky plateaus and in the scorching heat of the wadies (dry river beds). And woe to him who, uninitiated, tried to collect the valuable product, for, sooner or later he perished from thirst and exhaustion.

The gathering of incense, myrrh and aloe remained a work for those trained in the hard and difficult art of traveling over the endless plains of stone, and through the wadies with their perpendicular walls and deadly heat that drives man to despair. These products of wondrous odor, destined for the service of God and the dead, carry with them something of the mystery of their land of origin.

Very Old City in Bolivia

When the Spaniards entered the region now known as Bolivia they found a very old city. Tiwanaco, near Lake Titicaca. The huge stone blocks of the buildings were held in place with great silver and copper staples. Plunder being the object of the Spaniards, they pried these metal staples loose and carried them off, leaving the massive walls to topple. It is difficult to judge the age of the city.

The ancient Tiwanacotians used a sun dial, and a German scientist and astronomer has made calculations to determine how far the axis of the earth has shifted since their sun dial stood in its proper relation to the poles. At first he used a for mula adopted by the French Society of Astronomers, and he obtained 12,000 years as the city's age.

Marine Hospitals

The division of marine hospitals and relief is a branch of the United States public health service. This organization had its origin in the Marine hospital service, which was established by an act of congress approved July 16, 1798. In 1902 the name of the organization was changed to the public health and marine hospital service, and in 1912 changed again to the United States public health service. At first marine hospitals were financed through a tax of 20 cents per month, which was later increased to 40 cents, deducted from the wages of each seaman and collected by the collector of customs. Subsequently this was replaced by a tonnage tax, and finally, about 50 years ago, by direct appropriations out of the United States treasury.

"Griggle" Apples

The "griggle tart" still survives in the villages of the west of England, but elsewhere it is almost unknown. It had its origin in the old harvest custom of farmers opening their apple orchards to the villagers after the crop had been gathered. It was the practice of farmers to leave on the trees all the small and misshapen fruit. On the appointed day for the "griggle," as it was called, the villagers arrived with baskets, books, sticks, and short ladders to gather the "griggle" apples. In good seasons, when the farmer was not particular in picking the undersized fruit, the villagers went home with well-filled baskets, and "griggle tarts" were made.

Question Box
By ED WYNN
The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Can you tell me what is most useful to us—the "moon" or the "sun."

Yours truly,

S. TRONEMER.

Answer: The moon is, because it gives more light at night when it is so dark; the sun shines only in the daytime, when we don't need it.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I bought a new pair of shoes. When I got home I found I couldn't get them on my feet. What shall I do?

Yours truly,

I. M. PERTURBED.

Answer: They are probably like all new shoes. You won't be able to get them on till you've worn them awhile.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a boy, nine years old. My father says crickets are more wonderful than John Philip Sousa, Irving Berlin and Paul Whiteman. Why does he say that?

Truly yours,

B. PLAT.

Answer: Your father means that crickets make music with their hind legs, and that's more than any of those fellows can do.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I hear that in HINDUSTAN they don't have dentists. The people take out their teeth with their fingers. Don't you think that is wonderful?

Sincerely,

EYMAN PANE.

Answer: Nothing is wonderful about that. We have thousands of people in this country who take their teeth out with their fingers every night before going to bed.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
What will be the difference between present times and the days when women will have all equal rights?

Yours truly,

I. C. A. CONSPIRACY.

Answer: At the present time women have their faces on coins, their hands in men's pockets, their eyes on men's sons. Equal rights will give them the opportunity to put their "noses" in MEN'S BUSINESS. That's all.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have been keeping company with a travelling salesman. Last night he asked me to marry him. He said he would always love me from February to May and September to December. What does he mean by promising to love me only in certain months of the year?

Yours truly,

HUGH SHUDNO.

Answer: He's traveling the other months.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. BurgessPETER DISCOVERS SOMETHING STARTLING

NOT far from the Old Orchard grew a thorn-tree which Peter often passed. He never had paid any particular attention to it. One morning he stopped to rest under it. Happening to look up, he saw a most astonishing and startling sight. Fastened on the sharp thorns of one of the branches were three grasshoppers, a big moth, two big caterpillars, a lizard, a small mouse, and a young English sparrow.

Do you wonder that Peter thought he must be dreaming? He couldn't.

"You're Wrong, Johnny Chuck. You Are Altogether Wrong."

Imagine how those creatures could have become fastened on those long, sharp thorns. It was a dreadful sight. Somehow it gave him an uncomfortable feeling. He didn't want to stay around there, yet it was hard to tear himself away. However, finally he did and hurried over to the Old Orchard bubbling over with desire to tell someone of the strange and dreadful thing he had seen in the thorn-tree and to try to find out what it meant.

Sitting on his doorstep under the big apple tree in the far corner of the Old Orchard he found Johnny Chuck, and at once hurried to tell him the strange news. Johnny didn't interrupt once. When Peter had finished his story, Johnny quite frankly told him that never had he heard of such a thing, and that he thought Peter must be dreaming and didn't know it.

Now, Peter knew that he hadn't been dreaming. He knew that he had seen with his very own eyes that dreadful sight in the thorn-tree and he grew quite indignant with Johnny Chuck for doubting him. But Johnny persisted in refusing to believe and repeated that he was certain Peter must have dreamed it.

"You're wrong, Johnny Chuck. You are altogether wrong. Peter hasn't been dreaming at all," said Skimmer the Swallow, who lives in a hole in the tree just above Johnny Chuck's house and had been sitting where he overheard everything.

"Well, if you know so much about it, please explain," said Johnny Chuck rather crossly.

"It's simple enough," replied Skimmer. "Peter just happened to find the storehouse of Butcher the Shrike. I must admit, but one must give Butcher credit for being smart enough to lay up a store of food when it was plentiful. When you come to think about it, I don't know why one who eats that kind of food shouldn't store it up the same as others store up other kinds of foods. Of course, those things won't keep long, but they will keep from one meal to another, and probably that is all Butcher wants."

"Who is Butcher the Shrike?" demanded Peter. "He's new to me," said T. W. Burgess—WNU Service.

Mother's Cook BookTO HAVE FOR DESSERT

THIS is the season of the year when simple, light desserts appeal to those who prepare them and to those who only enjoy eating them. The wealth of fruits which are in the market in the late summer and early fall supply many pleasing desserts with but little preparation. Fruits to be served at the table should be well chilled, garnished with appropriate greens when possible and arranged in as dainty and appealing manner as is convenient.

Fruit Charlotte.

Soak one tablespoon of gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water and dissolve in one-fourth cup of scalding milk. Scald three-quarters of a cup of milk and one cup of sugar. Add to this the gelatin mixture and stir until cool. Whip one pint of cream and add it to the gelatin. Fold in one dozen crumbled macaroons, one-half cup of candied cherries cut into bits, two slices of candied pineapple shredded, one-half cup of blanched almonds shredded and browned in the oven, one-half cup of pecan meats broken into pieces and one teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into a mold, allow it to become firm and serve with cream, plain or whipped.

Banana Ice-Box Cake.

Put one cup of milk, one tablespoon of butter, one teaspoon of cornstarch, one-half cup of sugar, and three beaten yolks in a double boiler, cook over hot water until smooth and thick. Remove from the water, add a teaspoon of vanilla and the stiffly beaten egg whites. Cover the bottom and sides of a spring form with split lady fingers, round side down, slide four bananas to cover the lady fingers, then cover with half of the filling and repeat, then finish with the top of lady fingers, with the rounded sides up like the spokes of a wheel.
Keep in the ice chest 12 hours before serving. Decorate with whipped cream and serve.

"How funny those days of the 'Gay Nineties' must have been," says modern Minnie, "whose chorus girls and piano movers were the same size."

YOU AWAY?

By ANNE CAMPBELL

YOU'VE gone away? Ah, no, you are still here in every room that treasures your sweet grace.

I linger in your chair and feel you near.

Your mirror seems to mirror your absent face.

The curtains meet the breeze, their cresting lace.

Waving like phantom arms to bid you come.

Your loved books wait in their accustomed place.

Outside there is the town's familiar hum.

You've gone away? Ah, no, you could not go.

Beyond my heart's pavilion. You are there.

With the bright lamp of friendship aglow.

Sending its beams to light me up life's stair.

You will be with me whether joy or care.

Is my companion in the days to be.

Absent or present, you are every where!

You are away, perhaps, but not from me!

Tennis Is a Royal Game;

Americans Good Players

Tennis may well be called a royal game, for it has been popular with various kings of England and France, and it can be said to have originated as a game with the Greeks and Romans, who played it with a peculiarly shaped racket something like a lacrosse stick or a hockey stick with a net attached.

The word "tennis" is probably derived from the French word "Tenez," meaning "Take It! Play!"

In A. D. 1300 the game was known as la boude, and throughout that century it was played all over France by the highest in the land. Indeed, Louis X died through a chill contracted after playing, and Charles VI of France watched it being played from the room in which he was confined during his attack of insanity.

A strange page in the history of tennis is found in the statement that although there were 250 courts in Paris alone during the sixteenth century, there were only six courts in the whole of France in 1879, so much had its popularity decreased. Strangely enough, although Americans are perhaps the finest tennis players in the world, the game was not introduced into the country until 1880, and was not really popular until in recent years.

Genuine Panama Hats

Genuine panama hats are made of the young leaves of the Jipijapa plant, or stemless screw pine, which is especially abundant in Ecuador, where these hats are made almost exclusively. Locally this fiber is known as paja toquilla. Panama hats are woven by hand, and work on them is done only in the early morning or evening hours when the dew is out. Consequently it takes from two to three months to make one hat. Panama hats are also made in Peru and Colombia, but not in large quantities. Panama hats received their name from the fact that they were introduced to the commercial world through Panama; they are not made there.

Narrow Head Not Healthy

The head that is narrow from ear to ear usually has the accompaniment of a body that is not up to health par, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Such subjects will often tend to be narrow in mental scope and consequently egotistical. They will make contacts with people poorly and tend toward self-contraction. They will be loyal, conscientious and particular in detail. They will incline to be mental rather than physical in their desires.

International Date Line

The international date line is an imaginary line approximately 180 degrees east of Greenwich at which point a traveler gains a day going east-bound and loses a day going west-bound. Sailing eastward a ship moves with the revolution of the earth; thus her course makes her gain time, while sailing westward against the movement of the earth lengthens her time. The additional day gained when traveling eastward is called "antipodes day."

Pennia's Capital

Tokoma, the capital in the embayment of modern Pennia. Not unlike some American western cities which grew up in an all boom, Tokoma has wooden buildings and wide streets, copied from western models. Its shops are more European than oriental, and the people dress like Europeans, with few exceptions. It is a city of commerce and government buildings, with a social life of European type.

THE VINE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE vine is trying vainly to climb high

Upon the smooth boards of my little shack.

The sun is peering from an azure sky,

But there is something here that holds it back.

Nothing to climb on, that is the rub. It falls.

Back on the brick of the foundation walls.

Today I'll buy a trellis for my vine, And guide its tendrils up the strong, white wood.

Reflecting as I do on the divine And lofty way God labors for our good,

Giving us room to climb to heights above.

Upon the golden trellis of his love.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

General Johnson Resigns and Richberg Rules the NRA—Textile Industry Board Named—The America's Cup Is Successfully Defended.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© by Western Newspaper Union.

GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON steps out of the picture and the NRA is turned over to Donald R. Richberg and other "left wing" members of the New Deal management. President Roosevelt announced the greater part of the reorganization plan for the national recovery body, naming first the policy making board, with Richberg as its chairman and Secretary Ickes, Secretary Perkins, Harry L. Hopkins and Chester Davis as members. A fifth member was yet to be selected, he to be the chairman of the new administrative board. Five other members of this latter body are S. Clay Williams, head of the Reynolds Tobacco company; Arthur D. White, president of Pan & Bradstreet; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Leon C. Marshall, labor specialist; and Prof. Walton H. Hamilton of Yale. Two ex-officio members are Blackwell Smith, assistant general counsel of NRA, and Leon Henderson, chief of the NRA division of research and planning under Johnson.

The judicial branch of the NRA was still under consideration. Mr. Roosevelt indicated that its duties might be assigned to a special department of the Department of Justice.

The recommendations of the new policy making board are subject to the will of the President, but under the terms of the executive order these recommendations must be submitted to the President by the director. Thus, Richberg will have the final voice before the President himself approves or disapproves the board's decisions.

The board was further empowered to "promulgate administrative policies, to appoint, to employ, discharge, fix the compensation, define the duties, and direct the conduct of the personnel necessary for its administration, and to exercise all those powers heretofore conferred by executive orders upon the administrator for industrial recovery."

RESIGNATION of General Johnson, as accepted by the President, is not effective until October 15. Until then, he will be busy compiling his final report and also, it is said, writing the story of his life. It was learned that he has been offered the management of industrial and labor relations of a large group of midwestern manufacturers.

This is not the time or place to estimate General Johnson's achievements as administrator of the NRA which was largely his own creation. He certainly worked hard and accomplished much, whether for good or evil. His mistakes were admittedly glaring, and not the least of them was his recent assertion that during his administration he had been in close touch with Justice Brandeis of the Supreme court. As that tribunal will have to pass on the constitutionality of NRA before long, this statement created a sensation and was disarming to the friends of Justice Brandeis. Of course, the jurist could take no notice of it. The "low down" is said to be that Johnson did consult the justice when he was formulating the NRA and received some informal advice which he disregarded, and that later Mr. Brandeis told him he had better resign.

ORGANIZED business and the President are not at all satisfied with each other. Business leaders are nervous, and Mr. Roosevelt feels that they have too many "inhibitions" and are not doing what they should to aid recovery. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, seeking a clear statement of the President's future intentions, sent him a list of questions on expenditures, budget balancing, currency stabilization and the government's part in business, politely requesting categorical replies. Mr. Roosevelt received the questionnaire with a smile and a joke, and there was no indication of his intention to answer it.

It was revealed in Washington that the President also received not long ago a set of resolutions adopted at a secret meeting of 12 leading industrialists and financiers. These men asserted that the policies of the New Deal, along with the uncertainties of the future, are throttling economic recovery in the United States. The resolutions were not intended for publication and the President made no mention of them in his press conferences.

Still another hard rap at the New Deal came in the form of a statement by the federal advisory council, composed of leading bankers. It was contained in a set of recommendations for the federal reserve system and severely criticized the administration's monetary and economic policies, demanding a return to what the council considers sound principles.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT's request that the great textile strike be called off and that the workers be taken back without discrimination, after he had received and approved the report of the special mediation board headed by Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire brought to an end the bitter struggle that had cost 14 lives and millions of dollars. The union leaders ordered the strikers to return to the mills, and all the way from Maine to Alabama the looms hummed again.

The next step was the appointment by the President of a board to adjust disputes between the workers and the employers in the industry. He named the three veteran arbiters who served in like capacity as members of the steel labor relations board—Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of North Carolina, Admiral Henry A. Wiley and James Mullenbach of Chicago.

The executive order stipulated that the board is "authorized and directed" to investigate wages, hours and other conditions in the industry to determine whether code provisions are being violated. If necessary, the board may refer its findings to proper governmental agencies for appropriate action.

The national labor relations board is made the court of appeal from any decision of the textile board. The board's findings are not subject to review by the executive branch of the government.

To start with, the board had the job of investigating numerous charges that some mill owners were discriminating against strikers. This alleged action so angered the union members that many demands for a renewal of the strike were sent in to the office of Francis J. Gorman, who directed the great walkout. Gorman advised the workers to be patient, but admitted that the situation was serious.

Meanwhile the leaders of the United Textile Workers went ahead with their plans to unionize the entire industry. These efforts are likely to create continuous friction in those mill regions where the union is rather weak.

AMERICA'S Cup remains in the United States and T. O. M. Sopwith, latest British challenger, goes home defeated and disgruntled. Harold Vanderbilt skipped the defending yacht Rainbow to four consecutive victories over Sopwith's Endeavour after the latter had won two races and seemed likely to carry the old trophy back to England. In the third race Sopwith flew his protest flag, claiming Rainbow had technically fouled Endeavour, but the racing committee refused to hear the protest because of a minor infraction of the rules. Sopwith was not the only person displeased by this action of the committee. In fact, general opinion was with him, and the races have left an unpleasant taste in the American mouth. However, it is probable the victory went to the better yacht, or the better crew, or both.

BECAUSE of bad treatment of Jews by the German Nazis there was loud objection to American participation in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin. Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic union, went to Germany to investigate, and on his recommendation the American Olympic committee decided to accept the German invitation.

In his report Brundage, in addition to giving the assurances he had received from German sports leaders that there would be no discrimination, pointed out that Jewish sports leaders in Germany were satisfied that they will have full opportunity to train and prepare for the Olympic games.

MORE than two thousand persons perished in a typhoon that swept over the richest industrial section of Japan in which are situated Osaka, Kobe and Kyoto. Thousands of others were injured, and the property damage was enormous, probably running above $100,000,000. The army's munitions program suffered a great setback, for scores of factories that were turning out guns and munitions were destroyed. Losses among the fishermen and farmers also were most serious.

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR HICKS, as head of the federal public works administration, announced an ambitious family housing project for Chicago which, at a cost of $12,000,000, will abolish a "slum area" of 37 city blocks on the southwest side and replace demolished buildings with small apartment houses for 8,000 families. Condemnation proceedings were started in the Federal court in Chicago, and Mr. Hicks said if the property owners are reasonable in their demands the project will go through speedily. The area to be rehabilitated is inhabited now almost entirely by persons of Italian descent and, far from being a typical "slum," contains numerous neat, well-kept homes and several large apartment houses. The plan of the PWA for its rebuilding is very similar to the housing projects in Moscow and Vienna, with the government supplying social and nursery facilities as well as dwellings. The work will be done through the federal housing corporation, which concerns the government owns.

EIGHT per cent boost in wages, amounting to more than $10,000,000 a year, has been granted their employees by the four big packing concerns of Chicago, Swift, Armour, Wilson and Cudahy, and their example is followed by packing companies in other cities.

The wage increases were granted as a result of negotiations between the companies and their plant labor conference boards. Whether the increases were the full demands of the workers or were compromises was not stated. The plant boards are established at all points at which the companies operate and they are composed of employee representatives, half of whom are chosen by the workers themselves and half by the managements.

MISS GRACE ARBOTT, for years one of the government's most faithful and useful servants, has resigned her position as director of the children's bureau, to the grief of her associates in Washington and the regret of every one who knows about her fine work there. Miss Arbott now becomes professor of public welfare administration in the University of Chicago and editor of the Social Service Review.

EVIDENCE was presented to a grand jury in New York against Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the former German machine gunner and journeyman carpenter accused of extortion in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh flew from Los Angeles to give their testimony. The authorities considered they had an iron clad case against the suspect, who was arrested after he had passed a ten dollar note that was part of the ransom money handed over a garden wall by Dr. John F. Condon ("Jafie") when the baby was supposed to be still alive. In Hauptmann's garage was found $13,750 of the ransom fund, his handwriting was found to be identical with that of the ransom notes, and there were many other facts plainly indicating his guilt.

The grand jury in New York indicted Hauptmann on charges of extortion, and when he was arraigned he pleaded not guilty. The detectives worked like beavers and found, among other incriminating evidence, $840 more hidden in the Hauptmann garage. This the prisoner admitted was part of the ransom money. The police said they expected the early arrest of two alleged accomplices of Hauptmann, one of whom was in Germany and the other on a liner bound for Europe.

New Jersey authorities expect to indict and try Hauptmann as the actual kidnaper and murderer of the Lindbergh baby.

DESPITE powerful federal inducements, the Colorado river authority bill, under which the government was to undertake a great power and irrigation project in the lower part of the Colorado river valley in Texas, died in the Texas legislature. The opposition, led by Mrs. Sarah T. Hughes, lawyer member from Dallas, succeeded in holding the measure in conference, unreported, until the special session of the legislature was forced to adjourn.

MAXIM LITVINOV told the League of Nations assembly that Russia still hopes for the establishment of a permanent peace conference in which the United States is a participant, for the consolidation of peace movements. He asked the league council to obtain a report on whether the world disarmament conference could be resumed with a possibility of success.

QUEEN MARY OF ENGLAND, accompanied by King George and the prince of Wales, went to Clydebank, Scotland, and there launched the largest steamship in the world, the 73,000 ton Cunard White Star liner that was started four years ago. Breaking a bottle of Australian champagne on its bow, the queen christened the huge vessel "Queen Mary."

HOW TO SHOOT

By Bob Nichols

Shooting Editor, Field and Stream

ONE of the poorest guns in the world for the beginner in wing shooting to use is the close shooting full choke gun. In fact, for upland work the close bored gun is a poor gun for anyone to use, except in open plains country where birds frequently rise at 20 to 30 yards, in which case you've got to have a gun that will reach out and get them.

The choke in a shotgun barrel means the degree to which its bore is constricted at the muzzle. The shot charge traveling through a full-choke barrel is suddenly squeezed together just before it reaches the muzzle. The effect is to cause the shot pellets to hang closer together, which results in a pattern of small diameter and maximum density. The construction, or choke, is in the first two or three inches at the muzzle. For this reason never try to make a short barrel by sawing off three or four inches at the muzzle. You will ruin the gun. Thereafter your gun will throw a wide, uneven pattern that can't be relied on. A good gunsmith can frequently turn out a good job of this kind providing the metal in the barrel is not too thin at the point where it is sawed off. His trick will be to start back about an inch or two from where he sawed the barrel, and then bore the barrel out slightly from there down toward the breech. This method is called recess chocking, or "jog" chocking. The results are apt to be somewhat of a gamble.

Only the good wing shot is capable of doing good work with the full choke gun. The small diameter shot pattern it throws takes close expert holding. And in thicket and brush shooting such a gun is a "pesteration." You can't let your game get too far away or you lose sight of it, and if you shoot at close range you mince the bird and ruin it for the table.

Capt. Ed C. Crossman, the well-known rifle expert, tells the amusing story of the man who went into the hardware store and asked for a "close shooting" gun. Naturally the clerk sold him a full-choke gun. Several days later theirate customer barged into the store and demanded his money back—either that or another gun. "This ain't a close shooting gun," he complained. "I shoot at rabbits at 20 yards and she blows him to pieces. She's a far shooting gun!"

The full choke gun is a very special weapon. Its use is justified only in a few kinds of field sport. And under no circumstances is the full choke the right gun for anyone but an expert shot. Pass shooting on ducks usually calls for all the range one can get out of his gun, and it is here that nothing but the full choke should be considered. But such shooting is not for the novice. In fact I do not believe there is more than one shot in a hundred who is capable of knowing how to lead fast flying ducks at 50 to 60 yards, and even he will have to do a lot of guess work. For the speed of high flying ducks varies. On a calm still day it is one speed. On a windy day with the birds traveling against the wind, it is another. And when they are coming downwind plus their normal fast flying speed, then it's decidedly something else again. Flying or running game must always be "led" in order to score hits. This is, you've got to shoot ahead of it. Why this is so will be explained in a later article.

The best gun for practically all upland shooting is the one with barrel bored improved cylinder. If a double-barrel gun, make the first barrel improved cylinder and the second modified choke. The gun should be light enough to handle fast, from six to six and a half pounds, for the faster your gun handles the better you will shoot it. Without hurry or confusion, one should be able to let off his first shot within half a second after the butt touches the shoulder. When you take longer time your muscles begin to "freeze" into rigidity—the result, you slow up or stop your swing. With a fast handling gun you do not need the longer range of the full choke gun. Your improved cylinder will do the work, and it will teach you to shoot a shotgun the way such a gun should be shot—fast and instinctively.

"Airway of Storks" Has

Been Accurately Traced

Migration of storks has been studied for years by Germany, Denmark and other European countries and the "airway of the storks" has now been traced. Thousands of storks have been marked and a record kept of their coming and going. Of the 800 ringed storks which left Denmark last August reports of nearly 400 have been received. Leaving Denmark, the storks fly to Germany. Then they make their way to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, and across the Bosphorus to Asia Minor, but it is not yet known whether they fly to Egypt through Palestine or across the Mediterranean. In Egypt they travel down the Nile, past the Great Lakes, eventually reaching Natal.
